

WHAT IS A MEDICAL TELESCRIBE?

A medical telescribe is a revolutionary concept in modern medicine. TeleScribes assist with a variety of critical tasks that allow doctors to spend less time on the computer and more time with their patients. You will see your telescribe on an iPad with the doctor.

One of the key tasks a medical telescribe performs is performing documentation in the Electronic Medical Record (EMR). In short, the EMR is a digital version of patients' chart. The electronic chart improves accuracy and organisation of patients' medical history while providing instant access to vital information, including medications, allergies, lab results and more.

What does this mean for you? The medical telescribe assisting your doctor is a professionally trained scribe. As your visit is expertly recorded in the EMR, you can enjoy the full, personal attention of your doctor. Additionally, the efficiency of the medical scribe may help decrease your wait time by eliminating the time your doctor spends on the computer in between visits.

YOUR PRIVACY IS IMPORTANT TO US

Every ScribeAustralia medical scribe is educated and trained on the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (HIPPA). Successful completion of the HIPPA examination is a mandatory component of medical scribe training. The medical scribe is held to the highest of standards to ensure your rights as a patient are protected. The visit is not recorded on the iPad, and no one else can visualise or hear your encounter with your doctor outside of the telescribe, the doctor, and you.

WHAT ELSE DOES A MEDICAL TELESCRIBE DO?

While documenting patient information in the EMR is a key role of the medical scribe, you will notice that the telescribe assists the doctor with many other important tasks. The telescribe will gather patient history and other related information prior to a visit, coordinate with other departments or facilities as appropriate and generally assist doctors so that they may provide the highest level of care.

WHO IS A MEDICAL SCRIBE?

Often, a medical scribe is an individual studying medicine. A background in medical scribing is quickly becoming the standard for pre-medical experience. These telecribes are the next generation of doctors, getting a head start on learning clinical medicine to provide superior care in the future.

The competition to become a medical scribe is intense and the training is rigorous. As the standard in professional scribe training and management, ScribeAustralia recruits the most qualified candidates.
